“ Looking back, I remember him always being at our house.

He asked my dad to let him drive one time.

My dad told him, “Get in and go drive in that field, but don’t hit the tree.” Billy wrecked my dad’s car right into the only tree in the field. 😭😭

There was also the time he went to hang out at the neighbors house. He came back telling his dad about getting his first kiss. His dad told him he’d better stay away from the neighbors house. Then he started dousing after shave everywhere he said she kissed him to get the cooties off. 😭😭

He taught me to eat bread with butter and sugar.

We got in trouble for laying awake talking at night. (Maybe because we were on separate couches across the living room and we were to loud.)

He was the first person I ever let give me a ride on a motorcycle before I started riding them.

We had a lot of good time’s together, and I’m sure gonna miss him more than word’s can express
