To My Mother,

I know we had our issues, I know we didn't see eye to eye, I know that we said somethings we both regretted and never got to take back, I know we did somethings we probably shouldn't have but all of that is done and gone and so now are you and despite our horrible relationship one thing will always stand true... You will forever be my mom, I will always love you and will always miss you. What's the worst part of all of this is Andrew. He loved you without fault and you loved him the same, that I also know as true. As he grows up just as I have with Amy, I will tell him stories of you, I promise only the good ones so he will always be able to hold those close. I know you'll be watching over him and I thank you for that! I hope your finding some peace now and that your in a better place and that your finally with Amy and Jim. Please know I love you, I wish things would've been different but we both chose the paths we took and we can't rewind time and make it different. I hope one day I can forgive you and find peace within that because after all you are who God chose to be my mother and Andrew's Grandmother. May you surf the clouds with Amy, dance on tables with Great Grandmother, speak German with Granny, give pawpaw crap for me, be extremely happy with Jim, have lunch with someone famous, have a laugh with Robin Williams and watch Micheal Jackson do Thriller until the end of time. I'll see you on the other side one day. As Amy says, " Peace, Love and Butterflies!"

“ Jackie was my sister. She'll always be. She was my support and encouragement many times in my life when I hit a low spot. We did many things together growing up and still stayed in contact though we were over 1000 miles apart. I am so glad that the Great Spirit allowed me to have a face to face video that last Monday before she passed away. She was best Mom she knew how to be to her two daughters and an excellent Grandma to her grandson. She loved them all dearly. I am glad my sister got to hear me read to her the short story "Answering the Call" that I wrote about an important part of her life before she passed. My sister is not gone. Now I have adjusted my life to walk with her as a spirit. Right now we are only face to face but the day will come when we will walk hand in hand in spirit done the lanes of the galaxies and ride the comets of the universe together. Because we know that the Great Spirit's unconditional infinite love is the key to all things!

“ I loved working with Jackie!! She always had a smile and made you smile just by being there. She is the only person I have ever known that could make my son's face red!!! I loved her.
