“ I just remembered her dry sense of humor and her outward sense of calm when it seemed at times that the world was burning down. I can't stop thinking about her and how it's so tragic that she had to go so soon. I know how hard she worked on getting her degree and never gave up on it. I feel like things were probably about to get a little easier for her but in truth I really don't know. I'm especially sorry for you Mary and the rest of y'all's family because I know losing her is taking a big hit for your family. My heart is with you and I'm acutely aware of the depth of pain you are going through. It's so cliché to say that life is precious and fragile but it's also true. It's human nature to take the people in our lives for granted and it's especially magnified when someone we love loses their life way too soon. I believe in Heaven and I know that Margaret is there now. I hope that helps you if even just a little. I love you guys. I wish there was something I could do to ease your pain 💔
